by dr. Richard Wheeler

ABOUT THE LECTURE

A presentation about career planning for PhDs and post-doc researchers with a focus on what no one will say about the world of work and careers. Richard asked ten of Europe's most successful scientists what they wished they had known when they were starting their careers, and what career advice they might give to PhDs, and the results are different from conventional wisdom. A presentation full of unusual results, strange anecdotes, and useful advice. The lecture concludes with an Ask Me Anything open discussion.
